Moderately Priced Dwelling Units

Staff Report

The purpose of the legislation is to enable people who work at the Naval Academy to participate in the City's MPDU program. Currently, to be eligible for the program a person may not currently own a home and must be:

- A City resident or employed within the City limits for at least the past twelve months (please refer to City Limits map); or
- A City of Annapolis employee beyond their probationary period; or
- A teacher or staff member in a school that is included in the Annapolis Senior High School district as defined by the Anne Arundel County Public Schools. (Please refer to the Anne Arundel County Public Schools District Map to see if your school is eligible.)

Because the Naval Academy is not within the City limits, people employed there who are not city residents, do not qualify for the program. Because of its proximity to the city, we would like to include people who work at the academy in the program, just as we did with people who work in the Annapolis Senior High school district.
