A. Update from the Mayor

Mayor Gavin Buckley
City Council Meeting
Council Chambers
November 19, 2019 * 7 pm

Good evening everyone. Thank you for being with us this evening. After tonight, there is only one remaining City Council meeting in 2019! That is on December 9. To start out tonight, I have some solemn and unfortunate news. A little over a week ago, Annapolis Fire Department Lieutenant Josh Snyder passed away following a hard-fought battle with cancer. Lt. Snyder had been with AFD since 2006. He was initially assigned to Taylor Avenue station as a member of the special operations team. He was reassigned to the Eastport station following his promotion to Lieutenant in 2017. He received several accolades, letters of commendation and a unit citation throughout his short career. Snyder was just 34 years old with a wife and two children.

Thank you Lieutenant Snyder, for your service to the City and our residents -- may you rest in peace. I would like to now ask for a moment of silence in honor of Josh Snyder.

Thank you. Annapolis Fire Chief Doug Remaley would like me to thank Anne Arundel County Fire and the Naval District Washington and Naval Academy for filling all City fire stations so that Annapolis City Fire Department personnel could attend the funeral and services for Lt. Snyder on Friday and Saturday.

We are a community and we thank you for helping our City fire, EMS and department personnel in their hour of need.

Two events happened this past Saturday. The first was an e-sports gaming event at Maryland Hall that was brought to the City by Elite Gaming Live with the help of Adetola Ajayi in my office, the Annapolis Department of Recreation and Parks, and Maryland Hall. The event is video gaming as "sport."

It is a fun way to introduce young people to technology and interest them in STEM fields including game concepts, coding and graphics.

Students from Annapolis Middle and Bates Middle faced off against one another at the event. There are photos and coverage of it in the Capital Gazette. Please check it out.

Thanks to all the students who came out and the organizers who hosted.

The other event was a book signing at Barnes and Noble with Andrea Chamblee. She is the widow of slain journalist John McNamara, who wrote for the Capital and the Bowie Blade. He covered sports for two-plus decades. He had started writing a book about basketball in the Washington, DC area. Andrea finished it with the help of David Elfin and a forward by Coach Gary Williams, whom we all know as the person who led the Maryland Terrapins to a NCAA Final Four in 2001 and the 2002 NCAA championship.

This book is about as local as you can get. It is about regional high school basketball.

If you have a sports fan in your life, this book is a great gift idea for the holidays. The book looks at the local figures who have had a significant impact on the sport. From EB Henderson, who was the first African American certified to teach public school physical education, to Earl Lloyd, the first African American to take the court in an NBA game. A single Washington DC high school produced two Basketball Hall of Famers, among the NBA's 50 greatest players of all time. The players are Elgin Baylor and Dave Bing of Spingarn High School. No other high school can make that claim.

The book is first and foremost about basketball, but in discussing the players and coaches and evolution of the game, McNamara uncovers the turmoil in the lives of people in and around the sport – the prejudice, educational inequities, politics and more. Thank you Andrea for your work on behalf of your late husband, in both bringing this book to publication, but also your work on behalf of Moms Demand Action and gun safety.

Weekend before last, Tony Strong Pratt and her husband arranged for a movie theater for about 200 children to go and see the film "Harriet" about Harriet Tubman and the Underground Railroad. Afterwards, the City sponsored an afternoon at Pip Moyer where the children could ask questions and talk about what they had learned in the movie. It is a difficult, but very good and moving film. I think the children appreciated the history lesson in that format. If you have not, take your children to see this movie. It is an important part of our history, especially because much of that story centers around Maryland.

We had an opportunity to ride the trails at Waterworks Park. DPW director David Jarrell, Alderman DaJuan Gay and a few others went over a little before lunch in the middle of the week and spent an hour on City property off Defense Highway. You can get there by riding your bicycle in or by parking along Housley Road.

I want to thank the volunteers at MORE Trailwerks who cut the trails and will maintain them. It is an amazing amenity for city residents and it did not cost taxpayers a single cent.

Alderwoman Tierney wanted me to give a shout out to the anonymous donor who paid for the Little Library at the Stanton Center. These Little Libraries are small structures that can hold maybe a dozen or two dozen books. People can either take a book or leave a book, or both. The folks at our Recreation and Parks department put up the little library and it is already being used.

The remaining events are our Holiday festivities and dates:

- December 1 is the Grand Illumination at Hopkins Plaza next to Market House. The celebration begins at 5:30 pm with dancing and carolers. Santa arrives at 6:30 pm. The Jaycees will serve hot chocolate, candy canes, and have children's activities. If you would like to bring an unwrapped gift, for there will be a drop-off – or for nonperishable food items for the Angel Tree program to help families in need.

- December 5 is the City's open house here at City Hall. Stop by before midnight madness for cookies and a meet and greet with City staff, council and me.

- The other two nights for midnight madness are Dec 12 and 19. Please shop local. As a reminder, our three hours of free-metered parking begins on Black Friday and runs through New Years. You will need to download the park mobile app and use the code PARKDTA. You can also park in the garages with residents park free or Park, Shop and Dine. Check out Annapolisparking.com for details on all the parking options. There has never been freer parking downtown for the holidays.

- The annual lights parade is coming on December 14 from six to 8 pm. That is always a fun and is sponsored by the Eastport Yacht club.

- Make your plans now for New Years! We will have the family party at Bates Athletic Complex from three to five and then the party at City Dock that will include live music and fireworks from eight to midnight.

- Before I close out remarks tonight, I would like to wish all of you on the council and our residents and visitors in the City a very happy and safe Thanksgiving. I know people see us arguing about policy up here, but we come to this work because we want what is best for our constituents and our community. That desire comes from a place of love. Love is what makes us want to do better for our families and our children. Love is also, what makes for wonderful holiday celebrations with family and friends. I wish you all a very warm, loving, and happy Thanksgiving!
