

Bobbi Collins has worked at the U.S. Naval Academy Alumni Association for nearly 20 years. Her portfolio included facilities manager for three historic properties in the Historic District—including Ogle Hall (1739)—the home of former Maryland Governor Benjamin Ogle. In this role, she oversaw upgrades to the properties and became skilled at Annapolis permits, zoning, and regulations for historic preservation, and testified before the Historic Preservation Commission. In addition, she was the lead staff member on the House Committee on the Board of Trustees at the U.S. Naval Academy Alumni Association.

Bobbi's other areas of responsibility included business operations (marketing, merchandise, and travel) as well as membership for a 65,000-member organization.

Bobbi holds a Bachelor of Business Administration, majoring in marketing and finance, from the George Washington University. She lives in West Annapolis and currently works for a west coast tour operator providing world-class educational travel to universities. She and her husband are supporters of the Historic Annapolis Foundation and Lighthouse Shelter.
