PETITIONS, REPORTS & COMMUNICATIONS

Update from Mayor

Good evening. I want to start out tonight by alerting the public to a widespread phishing scam making the rounds via text message. These messages indicate unpaid Annapolis parking fees or fines. There are variations in the language, but the scammers are primarily interested in getting your name, date of birth, address and credit card information. Do not respond or click the link. Report as “junk” and then delete.

These messages have been received here in Annapolis, but also in California, Nebraska, North Carolina, and the Eastern Shore. People who get the message may be in Annapolis or may park in Annapolis, but there are also those who have never been here who are getting the message.

These are similar to a text message scheme from late last year that targeted EZ pass and tolls.

The phishing scam has been reported to state police and the FBI, who are helping us track down, and shut down, the operation.

Tomorrow night is the last regularly-scheduled State of Black Annapolis event at the Busch Library on West Street, starting at 5 p.m.

The Feb. 11 event that got cancelled due to snow will be rescheduled for March. Stay tuned to City social media channels for the new date and possibly a new location.

Again, I want to thank our Adetola Ajayi and his team for putting together a strong educational, informational and entertaining program week throughout Black History Month.

1

In addition, our recent Key to the City presentation to Kendall Dorsey, who grew up in Robinwood under difficult circumstances and who is now a celebrity hairstylist to stars like Rihanna and Nicki Minaj. It was a great celebration of the strength and resilience of our African American community and the amazing talents of Mr. Dorsey. I was particularly impressed by how humbled and touched he was to be honored by his home town, and by all the ways he gave back while he was here including visits to our local high schools and workshops with local hair stylists. Thank you to all who came out to be part of this wonderful celebration.

===

On Wednesday, Annapolis Police will present the “Lest We Forget” program at First Baptist Church on West Washington Street. The program will honor African American officers of the Annapolis Police Department from 1960 to present. The celebration starts at 6 p.m. and is open to the public.

===

I want to thank the hardworking volunteers of the Watershed Stewards Academy’s, “Save Our Trees,” program for their work this past weekend on cleaning up the area around Brewer Hill and behind the Annapolis Police Department on Taylor Avenue.

This area includes the headwaters of College Creek, so the trash they cleared out will also impact area waterways.

Since 2022, they have cleared invasive English Ivy from more than 6,700 trees, much of that work in Truxtun Park. What an amazing job!

==

On Sunday, March 9, the City will officially kick off the 2025 parade season with the annual St. Patrick’s Day parade followed by the Shamrock the Dock concert. The parade steps off at 1 p.m. on Sunday from Amos Garrett Blvd at West Street and makes its way downtown along West Street, Church Circle, Main Street and ends at City Dock where the Shamrock the Dock concert takes place.

2

This is our biggest parade of the year, and we ask residents and visitors to pay attention to parking restrictions and temporary road closures. Have fun, stay safe, and may the road rise to meet you!

==

Also that night we switch back to Daylight Savings Time, giving us a little more daylight in the evening.

We are aware that some of our residents are affected or will be potentially affected by changes within the federal government, including government cutbacks.

I would like to thank Governor Moore and his team who are coordinating with local jurisdictions across the state to gather data and share information. They have set up a resources page on the website “Maryland.gov.” which includes resources for unemployment, job search and career support, health insurance, legal resources and links to important employment rules and regulations. To find the page online, use the keywords “Resources for Impacted Workers.”

As a community with close ties to our federal agencies and operations, we are going to have to support one another and help our neighbors and friends who may be impacted.

In addition to those resources, Anne Arundel County’s Immigrant Affairs Commission has put together an eight-page resource guide, in English and in Spanish, to help families who may be new to our community to be prepared. This includes resources for interacting with federal agencies, preparing for emergencies, avoiding scams, seeking legal assistance, and reporting hate crimes. To learn more, visit the Office of Multicultural Affairs at aaccounty.org.

3

During tonight’s meeting, we will introduce R-8-25, “Mayor Alderperson and City Manager Compensation.”

This resolution accepts into the record, the report of the 2025 Salary Review commission as required by City Code.

To help the public to better understand the process, I want to make clear that this legislation does not impact the current Mayor or Council – it will only apply to the next Mayor and Council who will be elected in November.

I also want to be clear that tonight’s resolution does not enact any of the recommendations of the report. Tonight we simply are accepting the report into the record and then later, under separate legislation, we will debate and vote on what that future compensation for the Mayor and Council should be. Of course, we can follow their recommendations - or, we can come up with something on our own.

I want to thank the members of the commission for their quick, but thorough, work on the report. Under the requirements of the City Code, they had a very short timeline and they met their deadline by working very hard and with utmost professionalism. Thank you all!

==

Lastly tonight, I want to thank Mayor Kristopher Bolam of Frankston, Australia, who visited Annapolis earlier this month while he was in Washington DC on a diplomatic mission. Frankston and Annapolis are alike in that we are coastal communities about 25 miles - give or take - from major metropolitan areas. We both have military connections in that we have the Naval Academy and Frankston has a dynamic veteran population. We have challenges in affordable housing, declining biodiversity in our waterways, and like most coastal communities around the globe, challenges with flooding and sea level rise.

4

We had a productive conversation followed by a meeting with officials from the US Naval Academy.

As we continue to earn notice from governments around the globe for our work on resilience and our unique approach to funding the work at City Dock through the P3, we expect to see more leaders reaching out. These mutual exchanges help us to see things through a different lens, it boosts collaboration, enhances knowledge sharing, and helps us to improve our team's approach to problem solving.

We thank Mayor Bolam for taking the time out of his packed international schedule to make his way to our historic capital city!

==

And now let's get on with the meeting.
