Petitions, Reports and Communications

A. Update from the Mayor

Welcome Back.

I hope everyone had a nice break. I missed you!

In August, we had a number of Back to School events, including distribution of backpacks and school supplies through our One Annapolis team. I'd like to thank Alderwoman Tierney for coming out to do Face Painting for the children and Alderman Gay for organizing the additional distribution of school uniforms and bicycles.

On the first day of school, I had the opportunity to walk through five Annapolis schools with Superintendent George Arlotto. We visited Mills Parole, West Annapolis, Hillsmere and Annapolis Elementary schools plus Annapolis High where my son has just started. I want to thank Dr. Arlotto for that invitation. We have amazing teachers. The energy was terrific. You should know that your children are in safe hands.

I'd like to give a shout out to David Jarrell, the Director of Public Works. His department has been very busy and he should be recognized. First David and his staff have answered every question from the Public Works Task Force.

If that wasn't keeping them busy, he's also been busy figuring out how to deliver a temporary flooding solution on the Compromise Street side of City Dock.

What they did on the Dock Street side has been working really well aside from two instances where coastal flooding exceeded 3 feet. That included overnight Saturday into Sunday with the remnants of Dorian, which went out to sea, but did bring us some storm surge.

Speaking of hurricane Dorian, she destroyed so much property in the Bahamas and while the official toll as of today is 45, an island newspaper reported that the deaths could reach the thousands. That is such horrific devastation for a tiny island nation. In the United States mainland, the Outer Banks, and particularly Okracoke Island, where my wife's family is from, was also hit hard. Let us take a moment of silence for the victims and for those who have faced devastation and loss.

[moment of silence]

Back to City Dock. We know the remedy we have deployed is a temporary solution while we await the kickoff of the multi-million dollar pumps and pumping station included in the CIP. We know that as flood waters rise higher with each year, the temporary solution will be pushed to the limits. David has been a leader in finding our residents and businesses some relief after years and years of increased frequency of flooding around City Dock.

Finally, David and his team have been preparing to roll out an amazing new amenity for City residents that will come online in May of 2020. We're breaking ground on it tomorrow, and that is the demolition and reconstruction of Truxtun Park Pool. We'll be having a groundbreaking ceremony with the Department of Recreation and Parks and dignitaries at 10 am. The public is invited. More details can be found on the calendar on the City's website.

Please look around your neighborhoods where you will see sidewalks being replaced and infrastructure being upgraded. There is a lot of work being done to improve your City.

David, you are doing a great job and I want all of our residents to know that all of these things that are coming online are due in large measure to your being able to think strategically, act quickly, find creative solutions to problems, and important for the aldermen and alderwomen who control the purse strings around here, stay within your budget allocations.

Speaking of budget allocations, the Annapolis City Fire department recently received more than $103,000 from the federal government to purchase seven automated chest compression units. These are essential to assisting patients experiencing cardiac arrest, improving outcomes and allowing public safety personnel to perform other life-saving duties.

Thanks to Sens. Ben Cardin and Chris Van Hollen for securing that funding.

Also, this past weekend, the Fire Department held a wreath laying ceremony for Firefighter John W. Schwallenburg, who was killed in the line of duty 55 years ago on September 7, 1964. His death prompted a study to determine the need for paid firefighting. His name is alongside 18 firefighters who have died while protecting the residents of Annapolis and Anne Arundel County.

I'd also like to take a moment to remember and memorialize those who perished 18 years ago on 9/11 in New York City and the Pentagon. We should never forget the thousands of men and women who perished in the horrible attacks. I applaud federal legislators who have worked to support the first responders to the World Trade Towers who have suffered with the after effects of the heroic response of police and especially firefighters.

Let us be ever thankful of the danger that firefighters put themselves in to protect the public.

On August 20th, the Office of Emergency Management and Department of Recreation and Parks partnered with the Military Bowl Foundation which owns and operates Patriot Point. This facility on the Eastern Shore is a retreat for recovering military veterans and their families.

For the City of Annapolis, Patriot Point opened its doors at no cost for a field trip for 25 disadvantaged children from Annapolis. They enjoyed a long day of outdoor activities including crabbing, fishing, kayaking, beach volleyball, corn hole, and much more.

Thank you to the foundation for providing an amazing experience to our group from Annapolis, and thanks to the Office of Emergency Management and Recreation and Parks for organizing the trip and dedicating your time for this event.

The City's Department of Recreation and Parks has partnered with Annapolis Rotary Club to install nine outdoor Little Libraries at nine different City of Annapolis Parks. Currently, there is one outdoor Little Library in front of the Pip Moyer Recreation Center near Griscom #1 Baseball Field. You can leave a book or take a book. Let's help foster a love of reading by utilizing these little libraries!

In August, Alderwoman Shiela Finlayson, Director of Recreation and Parks Archie Trader and I cut the ribbon on a new Bywater playground and a refurbished Annapolis Walk community center.

The Mercado Hilltop is going strong in the parking lot of the Salvation Army and will continue every Saturday through the end of the month. I would like to thank our partners at Recreation and Parks, the Salvation Army, Center of Help, Art in Public Places and especially Adriana Lee who, through sheer force of will, got the weekly market off the ground and keeps it going.

In West Annapolis, we saw a repurposing of the parklets, which were installed in August. They'll remain along Annapolis Avenue, at the request of the businesses, for the next few weeks. They are in front of Rutabaga, Bean Rush Café, Evelyn's and Flamant. Those businesses set out tables and umbrellas while Brian Cahalan on my staff prettied them up with plants. Locals are hoping the more pedestrian-friendly street will keep people hanging around to shop. Businesses are excited about additional capacity during the busy summer and fall months. Customers are thrilled that they can find additional seating at their favorite locations.

The EPS ban, also known as the Styrofoam ban, went into effect in the City on September 1. We are a leader on this initiative with the county and state following with their own bans in 2020. We've not heard any negatives about this initiative because people seem to understand the way this plastic foam product breaks down and finds its way into streams, the Chesapeake Bay and eventually our food supply. I'm grateful to the council for bold leadership on this environmental initiative. It's going swimmingly!

The City participated in a number of pop-up camps this summer, in partnership with the Department of Recreation and Parks, my office's One Annapolis team, and the City's police department. Children in our community were exposed to STEM activities like drone camp, plus photography, cooking, ukulele, sailing, e-sports and more. Alderwoman Pindell Charles talked last year about a goal of accessibility for all children in our community to participate in a meaningful enrichment activity over the summer. We are getting there! Thank you to all of our volunteers and teachers and mentors.

Also while on break, I had the opportunity to walk Ward One and visit businesses as part of "One Block at a Time" with the new economic development manager Stephen Rice.

Along with my family and friends, I got to sit with US Naval Academy Superintendent Sean Buck for the Navy Opener against Holy Cross. I predicted we would crush them and with a final score of 45 to 7, we did just that. Go Navy!

I walked Woodside Gardens last week with Chief of Police Ed Jackson and members of my One Annapolis team. It was good to talk to residents and I am pleased that they were so open and warm to our new police chief.

Also earlier in August, I participated in the Sailor's Triathlon, a great event that takes swimmers, runners and cyclists in the Annapolis Harbor, through the Naval Academy, historic district and into the County.

In August, Alderman DaJuan Gay was one of the featured speakers at the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr Rededication at Anne Arundel Community College. Thank You Alderman Gay for delivering powerful remarks and a reminding us of the importance of Dr. King's legacy.

Finally, as we wind down this summer season, please note that we have ongoing Art in Public Places events, including City Dock concerts as well as Square Dancing at the end of the month at Pip Moyer Recreation Center. Check the city website for details. Chambers Park concerts in Parole continue. We've got Fall Fest at Market Space coming up Sept. 22 and the Kunta Kinte Heritage Festival on Sept. 28, leading us right into the boat shows. There are plenty of things to keep us busy during the fall. I will see you out and about!
