Dear City Council,

I believe that the residents of Annapolis should be allowed to have their own chickens. The first reason is that if you have your own chicken they can save a fortune on eggs. Also if you have many mosquitos or ticks the chickens can eat them, they even eat your leftover food. Wouldn't you want to have a tick/mosquito free home. Next, if you have a chicken you can use it's manure as fertilizer. Finally, if you think chickens are gross and dirty, well they're not. Chickens usually take baths so, they really aren't dirty. As you can see I believe if people want chickens then let them have there chickens.

Sincerely,
Ashley

Dear city Council

The people of Annapolis should be able to raise chickens. My first reason is because they teach you responsibility. My evidence is that you feed them clean them and give them water which teaches you responsibility. Another reason is I am for raising chickens because their eggs are high in protein. In addition to my other reasons, they are a fun experience. If you are bored you can play with them outside. In conclusion, people should be able to raise chickens in Annapolis.

Dear City Council
3/19/15
I believe that the people in the city should be able to have chickens. I think that because you get to have the opportunity to see wild life grow in your back yard. Also you don't go to the store and spend $4.78 that you can already have in your back yard. Finally you really shouldn't make having chicken a law because they constantly take bath, eat ticks, mosquitoes and chickens do not have teeth so they are harmless to anybody. In conclusion chickens are just being helpful with our health like we are helpful with helping them live.

Dear City Council,

I think the people of Anguilla's should be allowed to raise chickens. My first reason is they teach you responsibility. They teach you responsibility because you have to feed, love, clean, and care for them.

another reason is they give you eggs.

eggs give your body nutrition. My last reason is you can't only eat the eggs you can eat the chicken so yes the people of Anguilla's should be allowed to raise chickens.

Sincerely,

Jaiden Hilligan

Dear City Council,

I believe that people in Annapolis should be able to raise chickens because then people would be able to get eggs from their own home. They'd be saving money by not going to the store to buy eggs and if you go to the store in a car or something that requires gasoline you would save money on gas. Another good thing about people having chickens is that inspectors and store that supply chickens, will have more jobs, and that means more money and the whole point of working is to get money. In conclusion I think that the people of Annapolis should be able to raise backyard chickens. Also remember this, we may stand as one together but it's not fair that by ones mistake, all should be punished.

Sincerely,

Fatima Benitez,

Dear City Council,

I think people should be allowed to have chickens in Annapolis.

I think that because chickens can be very useful. You can eat their eggs.

You can use their poop for plant fertilizer.

I think people who don't have a license should get their chickens taken away and the people that do have a license can keep their chickens.

This is why I think people should have chickens in Annapolis. Also why do you need a license for a chicken and not for a dog or cat.

Love,
Inayah

Dear city council,

I think the resident of annapolis should be able to have chicken because chickens are high in protein.

Also kids love playing with my evidence the brace counting their chickens, the chicken meat is high in protein.

Sincerely,

Khalil

Dear City Council,

The residents of Annapolis should be able to have house-hold chickens. I think that way because the chicken owners say that they are part of their family. Also, raising chickens will save the owner lots of money. My final reason is if the owner has children, they learn how to respect and take care of animals.

In conclusion, you should repeal the sunset clause to eliminate chickens from peoples house holds

Dear City Council,

I believe that we should be allowed to have chickens for pets. One reason we should have chickens for pets is people love eggs 69% of people use eggs almost every day to make food. My second reason is chickens can eat people food so no more leftovers but they can eat fish and dines.

My third reason is chickens are like people to we have own chickens for 1000 years and have responsibility. Have to clear the cages and pick out the eggs. In conclusion I think we could have chickens for pets.

Dear city Council,
We should have chickens in Annapolis of Maryland to raise chickens because, they should live with a family. My first reason is that chickens needs people to raise them. My evidence is that Max's sister made us to agree with her. My second reason is that chickens needs homes from us like a family and My evidence is that Max's sister always takes care of her chickens everyday. My third reason is that chickens are playful and goodful, my evidence is that Max's sister is playful and goodful with her chickens everyday.

Finally, for a conclusion we should not take chickens away from families.

Sincerely,
Malik B.

Dear City Council,

I believe that the city of Annapolis, Maryland should be able to raise chickens in their backyard. I believe this because it shows responsibility. Raising chickens is a responsibility because kids could learn how to feed the chickens and what chickens can not eat. Also they can learn about the coops and other things about chickens. Another reason is people could learn how nutritious the eggs that the chickens lay. Parents could encourage their kids to eat more egg. Also it could bring back parents memories from their childhood. In conclusion Annapolis Maryland should be able to have chickens in their backyard.

Sincerely,

Dear City Council

I think that we should be able to raise chickens in Annandale. It will save the people that have chickens money because they do not have to pay for gas and they are delicious and nutritious. Chickens are also good for the environment. We can use their poop for fertilizer for gardens and they also eat bugs, flies, and mosquitos. You might think chickens are smelly and dirty but they are not. They bathe themselves by grooming their body and they do not have ticks because they eat ticks.

In conclusion, I feel that we should be able to raise chickens in Annandale because the people with chickens paid money for their chickens and love their chickens more than anything. so you should not take them away!

Sincerely

Megan Hruby

Dear City Council,

I believe that the residents of Annapolis should be allowed to have chickens. First it can show that they have good responsibility.

Another reason is that you can get eggs from chickens and eat them because eggs have high in protein. Lastly chickens are also a valuable teaching tool.

Chickens were domesticated 10,000 years ago to be household pets. The types of food chickens eat is ticks, mosquitos and weeds. For these reasons

Annapolis residents should be allowed to have chickens.

Sincerely

Jada Fagan

Dear City Council,

I think that Annapolis should be able to have chickens because chickens eat flies, mosquitoes, ticks, and other small bugs so you don't have to worry about the bugs getting in your house.

Another reason is chickens are a lot of responsibility so if people have chickens they will be more responsible and learn how to take care of the chickens.

When you have a chicken you can save a lot of gas and money because instead of going to the store you will have a food producer in your back-yard.

Sincerely,
Darnest Starbury

Dear City Council

I believe that people in Annapolis should be able to have chickens.

Chickens are not dirty they clean themselves constantly. Chickens eat ticks, mosquito and weeds. They also help recycle there manure can become fertilizer.

In Annapolis total there is 16 households that have chickens. None of them had a complaint. Chickens have there own mind some children love there owners and some love little children. Chickens don't have teeth so if they get out the will not bite.

The owner should do as the rules say or they will get that chickens away. As the Capital newspaper said "Those who have chickens are very happy. I don't have a chicken but I'm feeding my mom to get some."

Sincerely,
Anna Grace

Dear City Council,
People of Annapolis MD

Should be able to raise chickens in their backyard or in their chicken coop. People who raised chickens for eggs and people them for cooking. People also need chickens for fun because when people have pumpkin patches they might have chickens there for little kids Mostly people care for chickens and for the record they have responsibility as if someone wanted to show the City of Annapolis that the people will take care of the chickens.
I conclude I feel like these chickens are important to the City of Annapolis. I suggest we should have chickens in this city.

Sincerely,
Kelli Brown

Dear City Council,

Residents of Annapolis should be allowed to raise chickens. One reason is if they want chickens they may apply for a permit. Another reason is if people have a permit, are responsible, and ask their neighbors their is no problem to have chickens. My last reason is that people that really want chickens they're making big coops for their chickens and they are being responsible. I say Residents of Annapolis should be allowed to raise chickens

Sincerely

Yedyn Boygas

Dear city Council,

I believe that the people of Annapolis should be able to raise chickens because all the complaints being said about the chickens are only going to people without patents. Chickens might not be humans but they are living beings too. So they need a place to live. At first I believed that having chickens was a foolish idea before a quest started came to my school and they gave me facts about chickens and that chickens have their own personality and feelings. They also are fun to play with. Chickens feel can be used as compost. In conclusion I believe chickens should be raised in the city of Annapolis.

Sincerely,

~~Ryle Summers~~

Dear City Council

I believe that the City of Annapolis Maryland should be able to raise chickens on their residence. One of the reasons that they teach kids responsibility for other living things. Other ways that they show kids responsibility are that everyday you have to feed them and clean up their poop. Also you have to make sure that you clean out their coop at least two times every week. Also chickens love taking baths and when you have leftovers you can feed them to the chickens because chickens like left overs. Chickens also eat muscetas and other pesky bugs that you might have in your yard. As you can see having a chicken is a good part of a healthy life style.

Sincerely
Veronica

Dear City Council,
I think that the residents of Annapolis should be allowed to raise chickens? I think people should have chickens because some people do not want to go to the store and pay for eggs when they can get it from there chicken, because some people don't have money to buy eggs and they are 18 eggs for $12.00. you get free eggs from your chicken

Sincerely,
Kimberly

Dear City Council,

The residents of Annapolis should be allowed to raise chickens.

They should be allowed if they have the legal documents to raise them. If they don't, and they're illegally raising them, they should be presented with a fine. One reason residents with a permit should be allowed to have chickens is, they can be able to produce their own eggs. We need eggs because eggs are high in protein. Also, kids really enjoy playing with chickens. We can't take away their happiness, can we? In addition, in the article "Counting Their Chicken" it says, "Hughes said she decided to raise hens because she wanted her family to understand where their food came from."

My dad agrees with the article as well. So, parents want their kids to know where food comes from. As you can see, the residents of Annapolis should be allowed to raise chickens.

Thank you for your consideration, and I look forward to your decision.

Sincerely,

Arianna Smith

Sincerely,

I think that the residents of Annapolis should be allowed to raise chickens. The 1st reason people should raise chickens is that they are good as a pet. They are very kind and friendly. Another reason people should raise chickens is that they make eggs that is edible. Also, you will get a lot of protein from the eggs. In addition to my other reasons, people should raise chickens because it is a great responsibility for kids. Learning there coop and collecting their eggs is a lot of work. In conclusion, people should raise chickens in Annapolis.

Dear City Council,
