

Dear City Council,

I believe that the residents of Annapolis should not be allowed to raise hens. My first reason is they have an unpleasant smell. People would not go to your house if there was a bad smell. Another reason is the chickens are very noisy. If you went to bed they would make lots of noise. Finally you could get a disease from chickens. The disease could get passed from chickens to people and animals. As you can see, chickens should not be in Annapolis.

Sincerely,
Jacob Lewontowski

Dear City Council

I think that the residents of Annapolis should not be allowed to raise chickens. My 1st reason is because some people are raising chickens illegally and that could lead to animal cruelty. Another reason is that chickens can cause disease. They can spread it to other animals in the area and it can spread to humans. My final reason is that taking care of a chicken is harder than taking care of a dog. Cleaning a coop is harder than picking up after the dog. In conclusion people in Annapolis should not raise chickens.

Sincerely
Steven Anzietini

3/18/2015

Dear City Council,

I am against residents being allowed to raise chickens on their property. The first reason is that people do it illegally. Most people do not want to fill out all the paperwork and have an inspector come to check and see if your lot is big enough for the coop and etc. Another reason is that people complain about the chickens and the people will not want to ask for their neighbors approval. The people want to raise chickens and has approval from the neighbors so they can raise the chickens. When there is no approval by the neighbors most people still raise chickens and from that the neighbors complain about an unpleasant odor and loud noise. The neighbors complain all that to the City Council and they tell the City Council that they didnt give permission so the person has to pay a fine. The final reason is that the people wont be there when needed and the other people around his neighborhood are busy and they cant care for the chickens when the person is away. When time goes on the poop gets bigger and it smells. The chickens coop might need cleaning and to feed the chickens no one wont be able to do it because they are busy. This is why I think that chickens should not be allowed to be raised on residential property.

Sincerley, Mario Buchkov

Dear City Council

I think people from Ampolis should not be allowed to have chicken in their back yard because if the chicken escape from the coop and go to other people's back yard and ruin their plants and lay eggs. The second reason is that they can make kids get scared and the third reason is that they cause an accident in the road. 20% of people said no and 10% of people said yes.

Sincerely

Edith

Dear City Council,
I think they should not have chickens because some people buy the chickens but they don't care about them. And some people think that they need rest but they leave them alone for a couple days and they might die because they don't care about them. Some people think that they make too much noise and some might find a way out of their back yard or front yard and if you don't have a gate they will run away if you're not watching them. People might think you're crazy because you have chickens running around the back yard because you do not have a gate and people say that chickens are crazy to have because you won't handle the chickens and some people might take chickens the wrong way because all that noise might drive you crazy. I think that chickens might have diseases from where they came from and chickens might pass it on and on to give to people that don't have it. And I think chickens are a bit irritable for people that have them because

What if you have to go work and you forgot about them and you were suppose to feed them it's going to make you mad at someone Just because of the chickens. And I think that chickens have no rights to be in unnapolis because stuff can go wrong and they might get out of head. And I think chickens make people mad and I think that chickens are bad happenings and I think that chickens can do bad things in your life because if you are working on your car and you are thinking about the chickens you might miss something in your life because of them and chickens can make a big big mess because you are not looking at them and I think chickens have a mind of it's own because the chickens go crazy and they run around too much like they are really going crazy.

Sincerely,
Kaliha