A. Update from the Mayor

Mayor Gavin Buckley, City Council Remarks
January 10, 2021 - 7 p.m.
City Council Chambers

Good evening everyone and thank you for being here. We have a big agenda tonight. It is a new year and a new council, so a big agenda is not surprising.

Happy New Year! I know we upended plans for a City celebration, but we had fireworks at both 5:30 and midnight, which were spectacular. I want to thank Felicia Nolan for her work in organizing that and the DJs, bands, activities and our first-ever CRAB DROP. She then had to cancel those at the last minute as omicron took hold. Thank you Felicia.

2022 is a new year it is arriving with new challenges, especially public health challenges related to the new COVID variant omicron. We need your help with slowing the spread because our City EMT and paramedic staff - as well as Anne Arundel Medical/Luminis - have moved to crisis standard of care. Please wear your mask. Get your vaccine, or if you are due, take the booster. If you need to be tested, the governor and the health department are standing up testing with the National Guard. Please do not go to the ER department if you need testing.

If you have COVID or symptoms of COVID, please stay home.

==

And speaking of COVID messing up our plans, I was saddened the Military Bowl was canceled right after Christmas. As you know, the parade, tailgate and game were shut down not due to any City or state restrictions but because one of the participating teams could not field enough players. This is a big event for our retailers and hospitality. If you can, please show a little love to our local businesses who missed out on those opportunities due to these unfortunate cancellations.

It looks like we will be starting the demolition of Hillman Garage in March of this year. We will soon be rolling out a website, communications and information through the project developer, AMRP.

Stay tuned to the City's social media pages and website for details which we will be sharing and asking you to share too.

There will be a mobility plan to move people around. We will offer many parking and transit options and the best part, downtown Annapolis will remain open for business throughout the rebuild.

The new garage will be an amazing asset. You know how, after a storm, stormwater rushes off the roof and right down into Ego Alley? When the garage was built nearly five decades ago, nobody cared about stormwater controls. This new garage will take us from no stormwater controls to 125 percent controlled. You know how the elevators do not work half the time? We will have brand new and fully functioning elevators. You know how the ticket taking machines are frustratingly slow? There will be no exit gates to slow down cars leaving the garage.

Lastly, you know how 425 parking spaces in Hillman sometimes does not seem like enough. How about 590 spaces in the new garage!

The rebuild will not happen without some growing pains, which we will do our best to minimize. At the end of it all, the new garage will be amazing.

We will continue to share updates as the date approaches.

==

Opening Day for the Maryland General Assembly is Wednesday. I want to welcome our state legislators, citizens and residents who come to Annapolis.

While the House has gone mostly virtual, the Senate is maintaining in-person legislative sessions and committee hearings with some restrictions on audience attendance. We encourage members of the General Assembly, their staff, visitors and members of the public to make Annapolis your home away from home during session.

In addition, the last thing - last week's snow. On four of the five days of the week, we had changes to city operations due to snow, icy conditions and then another round of snow.

The Monday storm dropped 10 to 12 inches of heavy, wet snow. Wendy O'Sullivan of the National Park Service told me that the kind of snow we got with that system was equivalent to three feet of the fluffy stuff. Three feet! By early Thursday, we were finalizing cleanup and gearing up for the Friday winter weather.

This was a tremendous lift for our Department of Public Works crews, Rec and Parks and, with the thousands of power outages, BGE who had to call in mutual aid from Philadelphia.

Our workers were out all night, then all day, then all night again - working in 12-hour shifts in the bitter cold. Recreation and Parks crew went to more than two dozen locations with downed trees and worked to "cut and toss" that debris so plows could get through. By Thursday afternoon all of our residents had power restored, all of our streets were passable and trash and recycling collections were back on schedule.

For the Friday snow, we sent our TV crew out to show the public what this kind of work entails. Enjoy this video of our DPW workers getting it done.

==Now, let's get on with our meeting.
