C. Update from the Mayor

Mayor Gavin Buckley
Remarks
City Council Meeting
Tuesday, March 26, 2019

- To start, I'd like to say a few words about an Annapolis police officer who passed away last week after a battle with cancer. Officer First Class Steve Sugg spent 32 years in law enforcement in Maryland, the last eight with the Annapolis Police Department. Officer Sugg served in the Patrol Division and Criminal Investigation Section here in the City. He was twice awarded Officer of the Month: in February 2012 and December 2015. He also received a Crime Reduction Ribbon and Commendatory letter. Officer Sugg's wife of 28 years, Darlene, predeceased him in 2014. He is survived by his daughter Megan and his son Steven and a grandson. At 53 years old, he is gone too soon. He will be missed by his family, by his extended law enforcement family, by his friends, and by our City.
- Rest in Peace, officer Sugg. Let's observe a moment of silence.
- Thank you everyone for being with us tonight.

- I hope everyone enjoyed our “Maryland Day” holiday yesterday - the reason we are having a Tuesday City Council meeting. It was way back in 1634 that the English ships “The Ark” and “The Dove” landed at what they named St. Clement’s Island in St. Mary’s County, bringing 150 colonists to these shores. The City of Annapolis was founded a mere 15 years later. This year, we will celebrate our 325th year after the City was granted a Charter. Happy Maryland Day!
- Maryland Day continues this weekend. I encourage you to visit MarylandDay.org where you can learn about the free offerings for families Friday through Sunday in Annapolis. There will be a flag raising ceremony on City Dock at 10am on Saturday, Watermark Tours is offering free 2 -mile walking tours around the Historic District. Banneker Douglass Museum is free and open to the public. Get into the Chesapeake Children’s Museum for $1. The Pride of Baltimore will be at City Dock and is free to visit on Saturday and Sunday. St. John’s College will have an exhibit of regional artists at the Mitchell Gallery, where entry is free. Charles Carroll House is free. William Paca House and Gardens tours are $1. African-American History Walking Tour at Susan Campbell Park is free. You get the idea. Check out the website at MarylandDay.org and enjoy an extended Maryland Day weekend with your friends or family.
- I was pleased to see the police department scholarship fundraiser at Market House last Wednesday was a huge success. I understand they raised more than $20,000. Congratulations! And a big shout out to Lt. Kevin Krauss for organizing a great event for a great cause with a great outcome. There are so many deserving young people in our community. I know these college and trade school funds will help them to have a better life. I was honored to attend and mingle with people who were so generous in their giving. Be on the lookout for scholarship applications and deadlines with a link from the city website: Annapolis.gov.
- Also on Wednesday we had the inaugural meeting of the Urban Land Institute/ULI City Dock Action Group and Working Teams. Thanks to Robert Clark and Eileen Fogarty for their hard work on assembling the volunteers needed to work on an implementation strategy and action plan for City Dock. We’ve given them a few months to have meetings and deliver a report with specific action items. You’ll get a final report to City Council by October. I look forward to the report and I’m sure you all do too.
- Earlier this month, we launched the website for OD Free Annapolis at Annapolis.gov. This is the third of three prongs in our strategy to combat opioid addiction. First, we have the NAPTOWN Anti-dope MoveMeant for community engagement in the African American community. Our next event for Naptown Anti-Dope is this Saturday, March 30, with Alderman

Fred Paone. That will be at the Stanton Center, from 11 to 3 p.m. Second, we have “Your Life Matters,” where we offer Narcan administration and CPR training to anyone who asks for it. The third is OD Free Annapolis, a website that is a clearinghouse for information, resources, treatment and even real-time statistics and GIS data on where the overdoses have happened. I’d like to thank MK Seborowski at the Office of Emergency Management for her work in getting the site launched. If you or a loved one are having difficulty with substance abuse, I urge you to reach out to City resources. There are people here who care and people who can help.

- Last night we held the first community forum for discovering from residents their priorities in our search for a new police chief. Turnout was beyond what we had hoped -- with around 100 people showing up to the American Legion Post on Forest Drive. I’d like to thank Bishop Craig Coates for facilitating this unique community conversation. Perhaps most importantly, I’d like to thank everyone who came out ready to share their thoughts and ideas. I hope the members of the City Council who attended, Alderswoman Finlayson, Alderswoman Pindell Charles, Alderswoman Tierney and Alderman Paone, found the meeting as successful as I did.
- There are three more to go in this series: on April 1 at the Eastport Fire Station; April 2 at Pip Moyer Recreation Center and April 4 at Mt. Olive Church. All start at 7 p.m. I encourage the public to come out and join the conversation.
- We also had the inaugural meeting of the Waterways cabinet last Thursday. I’d like to recognize Alderman Rob Savidge for his vision and leadership around this issue. This body will meet several times a year. They are stakeholders from the community along with officials and staff from the City. I expect we will see meaningful work from this dynamic group as the collective voice of our waterways.
- A quick note on Arbor Day, which takes place April 26 this year. Annapolis supports the Arbor Day Foundation’s “Time for Trees” initiative with a goal to plant a total of 100 million trees across America by 2022. We need to plant trees at a scale like never before to combat deforestation and ameliorate the impacts of climate change. Annapolis is already a designated “Tree City USA Community” and as such we’ll be encouraging you to plant and care for trees in our City. There’s a popular Chinese proverb: “the best time to plant a tree was 20 years ago. The second best time is now.”
- The Film Festival was this past weekend. What a great event for our City. I always wish I could get to see more of the films, but many are on my list to catch later. Thanks to founders Lee Anderson and Patti White for bringing this event to our town. It takes hundreds of festival volunteers and staff to manage this event and they are to be commended for making it a destination event for visitors and a highlight of the year for locals. There was an incredibly diverse mix of films. We had an opportunity to have the filmmakers, directors and actors share the fruits of their labor all while experiencing our City. Given the weather, the circulator, approved by the Council was very important.

- On April 1 of this year, a full year out from the Constitutionally-mandated 2020 Census, the City of Annapolis is partnering with Anne Arundel County to participate in a committee dedicated to getting a complete count for the county and city. As you know, when we don't count people, we lose out on programs and money. I look forward to working with County Executive Steuart Pittman's team to make sure that every person in Annapolis is counted next year. As an announcement, they are already hiring. These are good paying jobs that begin now. They pay a minimum of $21 an hour and you can do much of the work from home. They need office managers and field directors and data analysts. Census.gov is the website.
- A note on the passing of former Maryland Gov. Harry Hughes. There has been a lot said about the kind of government he sought to run and that the way he went about it restored confidence in government at a time when the people of Maryland were fatigued and distrustful. Let's strive to be the best city government we can be for the people of Annapolis as a way to honor his legacy.
- And finally, on one last solemn note, we had a vigil in the city for yet another mass shooting, this time the one in Christ Church, New Zealand that took 50 lives. Each and every one of these mass shootings is heartbreaking for the victims and survivors. And I count our City as survivors. Time is passing, but there is always time to remember Rebecca, Wendi, Rob, Gerald and John. We have to keep their memories alive and we have to reach out to the survivors and remind them that they are in our hearts.
- Please be kind to one another. Thank you.
