A. Update from the Mayor

Mayor Gavin Buckley City Council Remarks September 27, 2021 - 7 p.m.
City Council Chambers

Good evening. We got word today that Governor Larry Hogan made the request to President Joe Biden for a federal disaster declaration for Annapolis, Anne Arundel and Cecil counties. The Governor asked for this declaration for Hurricane Ida. For Annapolis and Anne Arundel specifically, the funding will help to rebuild after the tornado that touched down on September 1 and was spawned by Ida as she moved through. The funding request will support families in their efforts to rebuild, especially in this community of generational homeowners. I thank the Governor and his team for making the request and I thank our Annapolis Office of Emergency Management for their assistance in compiling the necessary information to support the request.

After tomorrow we will know who got the most votes in the three challenged primary races. Whatever the outcome, I want the public to know what an incredibly brave thing it is to put your name forward to be a candidate for elected office.

Regardless of your party, regardless of your political beliefs or background, people run for public office because they have a desire to serve their community. I want to thank all of the candidates for caring enough, for loving Annapolis and their communities enough, to run. One thing we know is that nobody gets into this job for the easy hours or the money!

But, as an elected official, one of the great things that we get to do is to make progress on city projects that benefit our residents. Two recent dedications - the taxi mural on the side of the Annapolis Department of Transportation Building and the playground at Annapolis Walk are two such projects.

I was happy to work with Alderwoman Pindell Charles on the Taxi Mural and dedication, which honors our history of taxi drivers in Annapolis. It was a privilege to have Mr. Francis Harris and Mr. Charles Chesterfield Harris, two former taxi drivers now in their 90s, as well as Paulette Gilmer Wilderson and Phyllis "Miss Tee" Redd Adams, on behalf of other drivers at the dedication event.

You see, after World War 2, many returning African American veterans went to work around Annapolis and Anne Arundel County. They worked at the Naval Academy, Ft. Meade, the old plastic plant in Odenton, Crownsville State Hospital and other locations. Many of those workers from the Greatest Generation sought out secondary part-time employment as taxi drivers, helping residents navigate around the City in the time of not only limited public transportation service, but also limited public accommodations due to segregation.

With this mural, we honor and thank the taxi drivers for their service. I also want to acknowledge Future History Now with Jeff Huntington, Julia Gibbs and their team for this beautiful piece of public art as well as the Art in Public Places Commission and all of the patrons and sponsors. Please stop by to see the work in the 300 block of Chinquapin Round Road.

That same night, we headed over to Annapolis Walk with Alderwoman Sheila Finlayson and Rec and Parks Director Archie Trader to cut the ribbon on a brand new playground. This beautiful playground includes swiggle-knots, swoosh slides, climbers, spinners, outdoor musical instruments and is fully ADA compliant. I am sure families are going to love this as a place for kids to play and families to gather.

I thank everyone who came out. We had a big crowd on a Monday night! I want to give a shout out to Curtis Spencer for the neighborhood cookout after the ribbon cutting. I'd also like to thank Brian Cahalan from my office who helped with delivery and clean up. It was a good night!

On September 18, the Mayors office softball team participated in the second "celebrity" slow pitch game against the Drug Free All Stars. I probably shouldn't say this about the Mayor's office team, but what we lacked in athletic ability, we made up for in fashion sense with our uniforms.

We looked really good out there on the field! While we didn't prevail in the final score, we had a good turnout. The game was followed by a Naptown Anti-dope movement basketball game, a soccer clinic, a resource fair and free food. It was a great way to bring a little fun into our educational effort about substance use and abuse. I want to thank Newton Gentry and Gerard Ferri for their work in bringing this event to Annapolis for the second year and Adetola Ajayi from my office for organizing the team.

This past weekend we had a couple of events at City Dock. First on Saturday, the Kunta Kinte Heritage Festival, the 31st annual event which coincided with the 100th birthday of Roots author Alex Haley. There were vendors and food, arts and entertainment and perfect weather. I thank Jan Lee and her team for putting on a great event that celebrates the perseverance, and cultural heritage of Africans, African Americans and Caribbean people of African descent.

On Sunday, we had the EV or Electric Vehicle, showcase. Individual owners, dealers and experts came to show off their vehicles but more importantly answer questions from people curious about electric vehicles. It was called "kick gas" and it kicked off Drive Electric Week. I thank Elvia Thompson and Lynne Forsman for organizing.

As many of you know, we are working toward building out the infrastructure around Annapolis to make it possible for more people to own electric vehicles. If we have charging stations and make it convenient, people will repay that effort by driving electric cars, which greatly reduces greenhouse gas emissions. This showcase event has grown over the past few years and connects and influences people to think differently about driving electric. Thank you to all who participated.

Last night we had the last of our City Dock Summer Concert events with City Dock Salsa. There is one more City Dock Concert, at the end of October, but for the most part, the series has wrapped up with weekly summer concerts or dance events. I want to thank all of our musicians and dancers and especially Genevieve Torri, our AIPPC chair. So much work goes into organizing and arranging these free events and our residents and businesses get to enjoy the free shows all throughout the summer.

You may have noticed on Main Street our flags from different Latin countries to celebrate Hispanic Heritage Month. It is truly a beautiful and welcoming site to drive up Main Street through the heart of the historic district, and see the flags of dozens of countries flying. Imagine coming here and seeing the flag of your home country and the pride of having your heritage acknowledged and officially recognized. I want to thank our Department of Public Works for hanging those flags and Laura Gutierrez of my office for arranging to get them flying this month for the second year in a row.

If I could take a moment to brag about Laura, she came here in the middle of the pandemic as our Hispanic Liaison in the mayor's office and she has done an outstanding job. So much so that she is being recognized for her work by the Maryland Legislative Latino Caucus as a COVID-19 community Hero, specifically their Community Leader Award. The awards event will be on Saturday, Oct. 9 in Germantown. Congratulations to Laura!

Weeping Mothers is an organization providing support and resources for mothers or parents of homicide victims. They are having an event at the American Legion Post on Forest Drive this Saturday starting at 1 p.m. The public is welcome to attend and I would like to thank Tanya Cooper Johnson for bringing this event to Annapolis.

The Annapolis Police Department will be hosting a Faith and Blue event at People's Park on Sunday, October 10. This event will take place from 1 to 5 p.m. and will be a collaborative effort to build bridges and break biases. It is hosted by clergy from the City of Annapolis, First Net/AT&T and the Motorola Solutions Foundation. For more information, visit faithandblue.org.

Lastly, the Annapolis Boat Show is back this year with the Powerboat show between October 7 and 10 and the Sailboat show between October 14 and 18.

This Sunday, Oct. 3, setup for the first show will begin with some road closures in the area of Dock Street and Market Space. Please be extra alert to parking restrictions and changes to traffic patterns.

We welcome the return of this show to our City Dock area not only because it is a high-profile event for the City, but also because it is a sign that we are slowly returning our economy and the maritime industry will be one of the engines that will drive the Annapolis recovery.

It is why the work of the Maritime Task Force was so important. I know we just gave them all a citation, but I want to again thank them for their work.

Now let's get on with tonight's meeting!
