C. Update from the Mayor

Mayor Gavin Buckley Remarks City Council Meeting Monday, March 11, 2019

- Thank you everyone for being here tonight.
- March is an exciting month in the City. Yesterday, we had a great St. Patrick's parade. I want to recognize our parade marshalls, who volunteer their time and go through training. Yesterday's lead marshall was Tom Cagle. Thank you Tom and the 11 other marshalls on the route. Thank you also to the members of the unified command, David Mandell at Office of Emergency Management, Battalion Chief Robert Christian of Annapolis Fire and from Annapolis Police Lt. Brian Della. Also, all of the personnel from public works and transportation operating on the route and in the field to keep the parade running smoothly and the public safe. From my office, I want to thank Felicia Nolan, special events coordinator.
- The parade was a great event ending at City Dock. I was down there and saw people going back and forth into the historic district. What an incredible economic driver for the City with people staying after the parade and doing weekend shopping and dining out. We heard that hotels in the City were sold out too. Great job everyone. Thank you!
- Tonight, happening right now, in fact, is the "March for our Schools" over on Rowe Blvd. in front of the General Assembly. They expected upwards of 7,500 people to come by bus from around the state for a First Amendment march to support public school teachers. I want to thank the teachers for showing up and our Annapolis Police, Fire and the Office of Emergency Management as well as Transportation staff for dealing with logistics and road closures.
- One of the March events coming up later this month that I am excited about is the Annapolis Film Festival which will take place March 21 to March 24 at locations around the City. I just found out that the opening night film will be "The Public" with Emilio Estevez, Alec Baldwin, Christian Slater, Taylor Schilling and Jena Malone. In all, the festival will host 70-plus films over four days. I know I will be attending as many as I can get to along with the parties and panels and Q&As. It should be great fun and I encourage everyone to get tickets. I will see you at the movies!

- Congratulations to our City Department of Public Works. Last week our water treatment facility won the Maryland Green Building Council “Wintergreen Award.” Our Water Treatment Facility is state-of-the-art in terms of its treatment of City drinking water that is safe and tasty. But the facility is also one of the most environmentally friendly - public utilities or otherwise - in the City of Annapolis. It is Silver Level LEED certified for energy efficiency standards and environmental design. Congratulations to the team! They attended an awards banquet in Baltimore last week and were very surprised with the win. Good job!
- The Urban and Regional Information Systems Association named our City GIS Coordinator Shawn Wampler the “Distinguished Single Process System Award” for more efficient services that save the government money. Congratulations to Shawn. We have some very smart people working in our City.
- It’s women’s history month and here in Annapolis, I’d like to take a few moments to reflect on some of the accomplishments of Annapolis women.
- Anne Catharine Hoof Green took over the Maryland Gazette in 1767 when her husband unexpectedly died. At a time when women were expected to play a domestic role, Mrs. Green was left in debt with a print shop to look after along with six children. She took over uninterrupted publication of what was then the only newspaper in Annapolis. In order to juggle her family duties, she moved the print shop into her home. Within three years she paid off her late husband’s debt and bought the property at 124 Charles Street.
- In 1921, Eliza Suydam became the first paid librarian and the founder of what is now the Anne Arundel County Public Library. She ran the operation out of historic Reynold’s Tavern and she was paid a monthly salary of $25.
- In 2001, Ellen Oosterling Moyer was elected to the job of Mayor of the City of Annapolis. Her election was the first time a woman served in the top job in the City’s 293-year history. Before that, she served 14 years on the City Council. Among other accomplishments, she established the Annapolis Conservancy Board and the city’s Greenscape program.
- There have been 12 female members of the City Council. Starting in 1973 with the election of Barbara Neustadt. In 1985, Ruth Gray and M. Theresa DeGraff. In 1987, Ellen Moyer. In 1994, Louise Hammond. In 1997, Sheila Tolliver and Cynthia Carter. In 2001, Julie Stankivic. In 2005, Sheila Finlayson. In 2013, Rhonda Pindell Charles. And in 2017, Elly Tierney and Shaneka Henson.
- Which brings us to TODAY. We have fully half of the City Council is female. Not 25 percent, not 30 percent. Half. Think about that for a minute. This City Council, in gender, looks more like the city’s population than at any time in our 311 year history.

- I am proud to have appointed the first permanent female City Manager in Teresa Sutherland. She is doing a fantastic job for our City, and as you may already know, but will surely learn at the State of the City next month, has taken the City's financial management into the new millennium with policies and procedures to put accountability at the forefront.
- Take the time to learn about the women in your community or you life or in your family for Women's History Month.

- I've held a number of community meetings with residents from Wards 4 and 5 to discuss ideas and opportunities to upgrade public works along Spa Road, balance the needs of the community and link some of the pedestrian and bicycle paths to Maryland Hall, the Annapolis Senior Center and other locations that will serve young and old alike. These meetings included talks at the American Legion last week, but also resident meetings with people from Homes on the Glen, Truxton Heights, the Annapolis Neck Peninsula Federation and Spa Creek Conservancy. Overall, there has been a positive reception. I look forward to exploring these ideas and continuing these conversations.
- I also had the opportunity to present to Leadership Anne Arundel, a great organization helping to nurture great leaders in our community. I know that four of our aldermen and women are graduates of the program. It was a lively crowd at Market House and I got great questions from the audience.
- Finally, earlier this month, I was able to speak to the Anne Arundel County Delegation in the Maryland General Assembly. I got to talk about resiliency, some of our plans for City Dock and Hillman Garage. One of the things I am very happy about is the margin by which the Payment in Lieu of Taxes or PILOT funds were approved in the House by a 46 to 0 vote and the Senate 135 to 5. I want to thank Sen. Sarah Elfreth and Speaker Mike Busch for writing and filing this legislation. We will receive, as mandatory state spending, nearly twice what we had previously been allocated from the governor for the expenses we incur to host state agencies, the governor and legislators here in the City. The margins look veto-proof, so I'm hoping the governor either signs the bill or lets it become law.
