A. Update from the Mayor

Mayor Gavin Buckley City Council Remarks April 6, 2020 - 7 p.m.

Good evening. Thank you for tuning in to our first-ever virtual City Council meeting in the 300-plus years since Annapolis was chartered.

Please recognize that this is new.

We have intentionally limited this meeting to three short agenda items and not added public testimony so that we can work out all the technology providing transparency before our next meeting where we will introduce the 2021 City budget and have witnesses and testimony. That's on Monday, April 13 at 7 p.m.

We will try to return to some normalcy by slowly adding committee meetings and some board and commission meetings. They'll all be virtual for the time being.

We thank you for your patience and understanding.

This is a very trying time for the city of Annapolis. While we are an old City with a rich history, we haven't encountered a pandemic with a full shutdown of most of our local economy in the modern era. So much of this is new.

If I can use a sailing analogy: we are doing our best to navigate these rough seas with minimal loss of life and no lasting damage to our vessel.

Our first priority as a City is to ensure the safety of residents. We continue to ask you to stay home, wash your hands, and practice social distancing. Our main goal is to stop the spread, flatten the curve and get to the other side of this as soon as possible.

As you know, our business community has been very hard hit. If you are a local business owner or worker who has been impacted by this pandemic, please check our City website for resources. Stephen Rice and Hope Stewart of our office of Economic Development have been collecting information about state and federal programs as well as nonprofit resources. There are many programs in place with more coming online. We will continue to keep this information updated. Check back often.

We have been working with our procurement office to ensure that our City employees have the Personal Protective Equipment they need to do their jobs. We are doing everything we can to ensure that not only do our police and firefighters have this equipment, but that bus drivers and DPW workers and other essential employees have the protections that they need. This is a priority and I want to thank our Office of Procurement and the Office of Emergency Management for staying on top of this. The county already has one officer who has tested positive. We need to keep our front line staff safe from this virus. PPE is important, but it only works if it is the right kind and we have enough.

The City Manager and Department Directors are very actively engaged in the effort to maintain as much continuity of government as possible. This meeting is one component piece, a very public-facing piece, but just one piece. Each day, we convene all departments on a call so that everyone has an opportunity to talk about challenges. We are leaning heavily on each other to solve problems so that our City can be ready to emerge from this crisis on a strong footing.

We are also leaning heavily on our county partners. The Anne Arundel County Department of Health has been operating a health line where City of Annapolis residents, as part of the county, can call to get health information about Covid-19. That number again is 410-222-7256.

Last week, they also opened an Annapolis drive through testing site at the Health Department off Riva Road. People need an appointment and a doctor's order to get the test.

The fact is, we need more tests and we need the ability to test everyone so that we can know who has it and who doesn't. We will continue to push this. I advocated for this on a call last week with Senators Cardin and VanHollen. We will continue to ask to expand testing.

We have also been following the county's lead in other areas, like keeping parks open but closing off playgrounds and other facilities where people might be tempted to congregate.

We continue to seek your cooperation. Please maintain social distance. Please don't try to get in to the grocery store during senior citizen shopping hours. Please don't congregate at outdoor markets or when you are picking up your carryout order.

This is incredibly hard. It's hard on the economy. It's hard on us socially and emotionally and mentally. But I know Annapolis to be a resilient city. I know us to be a city that has a lot of love for one another and a deep reserve of cooperation, volunteerism and kindness in our hearts. Stick with it and we'll get to the other side. We'll emerge stronger if we are together - but while standing at least six feet apart.

Let's get on with our meeting.
