PETITIONS, REPORTS & COMMUNICATIONS

Update from Mayor

I'd like to begin tonight by remembering longtime City employee Sylvia Gilmer who was laid to rest on Saturday. She retired in 2014, but had spent more than two decades in an administrative role with the Annapolis Police Department.

During her 24 years with APD, Sylvia was known for her strong work ethic and outgoing personality. On behalf of the City Council, we send our condolences to her family, friends, and colleagues. She will be greatly missed.

Thank you.

We had a great weekend with the spring boat show in town. It was a little soggy on Saturday, but the crowds didn't seem to mind. We thank our boat show partners for staging around our preliminary work at City Dock.

Speaking of City Dock, work there is getting underway in earnest this spring and summer. The old Harbormaster building was demolished earlier this month and recently we received final approvals from Maryland Historic Trust for the new Harbormaster Office and its connection to Burtis House. We're proud to have met all requirements of the lead preservation agency within our state and I thank everyone who worked towards this important goal.

Now we move to undertaking all the necessary preliminary work: removing ten ugly utility poles and 16 transformers, then widening the sidewalk so we can install utility vaults underground along with realigning the storm drains along Dock Street. All this will make a huge difference to the downtown experience, even before we start construction on the new park.

You will see new construction fencing going up at City Dock during the second week of May as we get started. The fencing will be moved throughout the project as the contractors work in different locations - doing archeological work in one place, underground utilities work in another. This is the essential site work required prior to ground breaking and full construction after the fall boat show.

To help our residents and visitors navigate the area during construction, we will install wayfinding signs for Watermark Cruises, Latitude 38, the Harbormaster, dockside restrooms and showers, and the mobile hub for Visit Annapolis, where visitors can pick up maps, brochures and personalized recommendations for downtown Annapolis attractions.

We thank you all in advance for your patience while we work our way to a more resilient and sustainable Annapolis City Dock. The new City Dock Park will not only provide essential flood protection, it will be a beautiful public space for all!

Also this weekend, Rec and Parks managed the citywide Greenscape program. The city buys the plants and volunteers in all Wards clean up patches of public greenspace, plant the plants, and enjoy time with their neighbors on a beautiful spring day.

We thank all our Greenscape volunteers for helping us to keep Annapolis beautiful.

This Wednesday, April 30, we will close out National Poetry month by celebrating the publication of the 4th annual edition of "Around Each Corner," the City's youth poetry book.

Come listen to the inspiring words of 18 talented young poets from our community as they share their visions, hopes, and stories about the theme 'where I am from'. That's 6 p.m. on Wednesday April 30 right here in City Council Chambers. Refreshments will be served.

This Thursday is May 1 when Annapolitans put May Baskets out on the door, stoop, or in front of their business to celebrate May Day.

For the 70th year, the Garden Club of Old Annapolis Towne will judge baskets in historic downtown and parts of inner Murray Hill. Winning baskets get a ribbon and an invitation to a tea party. If you are in those areas and want to be included in the judging, remember to tag your basket with your name and theme of your basket.

But you don't need to live downtown to hang a May Day Basket! You can put your displays in any area of the city!

This Saturday, May 4, the Kick Gas EV event at the Annapolis Mall will host Electric Vehicles and proudly feature Annapolis Transit's EV offerings including the all-new 100 percent electric 22-seater transit bus and the all-electric ten-minute trolleys that spend weekends circling Maryland Avenue/State Circle in downtown, and also in Eastport between the shopping center and numbered streets.

Stop by the mall between noon and 3 pm to check these out and talk to individual EV owners to hear about their experience.

On May 10, we look forward to taking part in the annual Dr. Martin Luther King Jr parade. The parade will start at 11am on Amos Garrett, then move down West Street, to Church Circle, then turn left and proceed to Northwest Street and along to the festival site at People's Park on Calvert Street.

The parade will be followed by the African Diaspora Festival, which will take place at People's Park from 12-8pm. There will be music, arts and crafts, lots of great food and more! So come along for some fun and color in celebration of the legacy, endurance, and rich cultural contribution of all those descended from African migration - both voluntary and involuntary. I hope to see you there!

On the same day, the .05K Eastport Bridge Run, will also be taking place – described by Runner's World magazine as the "least challenging athletic event ever conceived." The foot race over the bridge will take place at the crack of noon.

This event is over quickly - the bridge will be closed to traffic for about the same duration as a regular drawspan opening.

Again, all these events are Saturday, May 10th.

Toward the end of next month, we are looking forward to Commissioning Week. I'll have more details for you at our next council meeting, but be aware that activities will take place from May 17th to 22nd, with the commissioning ceremony on the 23rd. It's a busy time in Annapolis so it's good to plan ahead!

Lastly, Sunday May 11th is Mother's Day! A day to celebrate all the incredible mums out there who lift us up — that's moms, grandmothers, stepmoms, and the amazing people who fill the role of 'mom' in every form. To you we say, "Happy Mother's Day!"

I'm especially grateful for my wife Julie, who is an incredible mother to our two children.

Here at City Hall, we find ourselves lucky to work alongside so many talented moms who serve this City every day with heart and dedication. To the children of those mums: thank you for sharing!

To all the moms across Annapolis — Happy Mother's Day!

Now let's get on with our meeting.
