Robert Hruby has shared leadership and design direction with Kevin Camplon since 2011. His extensive experience in the profession spans 18 years working at prestigious national firms.

As a Senior Associate at Oehme, Van Sweden & Associates, Robert managed the overall design and implementation projects that ranged in type and scale from private residences and mixed-use communities to retail centers and retirement communities. His award winning residential designs range from large estates to intimate urban gardens. Robert's projects have been recognized as being in scale and proportion their surrounding context, elegantly detailed and ecologically grounded.

Robert's interest in private garden design is both practical and scholarly. During graduate school at the University of Massachusetts he was a research assistant for the James Rose Landscape Research Center, where he documented Rose's groundbreaking residential works. He is a recipient of many residential design awards, including a 2008 National Honor Award in Residential Design from the American Society of Landscape Architects.

Robert earned a bachelor's degree in Architecture from the University of Maryland, and a Master of Landscape Architecture degree from the University of Massachusetts. He is a registered landscape architect in the state of Maryland and an active member of the American Society of Landscape Architects.
